Highway to hell!

Drivers warned to expect another YEAR of disruption because of roadworks at A414 Clock Tower roundabout

MOTORISTS using the A414 between Harlow and junction 7 of the M11 face another 12 months of disruption because of work to improve the traffic flow.

A £4.2m programme of roadworks at the Clock Tower roundabout is due to start next month and is expected to last for a year.

The works are being funded by Essex County Council and the Department for Transport from its Local Pinch Point Fund, which was set up by the Government in 2012 to remove bottlenecks on local roads which have an impact on economic growth.

Yesterday (Wednesday), Harlow MP Robert Halfon said he was pleased at the announcement but worried about the "nightmare" facing drivers.

BIANCA CASTRO

bianca.castro@hertsexnews.co.uk

"Of course the £4.2m investment from the Government will greatly improve our traffic once it has been completed and forms part of the rebuilding of our transport infrastructure given Harlow's status as an Enterprise Zone," he told the Star.

"However, alongside local residents, living not far from the roundabout, I know all too well the current traffic nightmare that has resulted."

He added: "I will be making urgent representations to Essex Highways to see what can be done to alleviate current problems and to see if things can be speeded up. I am sure that our local councillors will do the same."

The existing junction is a roundabout that feeds traffic onto the northbound and southbound A414 and Second Avenue towards the town centre.

The works are designed to ease traffic flow and improve access to the Enterprise Zone at Templefields and the town centre. They will include the construction of two new slip lanes and the widening of other approaches to the roundabout.

Pedestrian and cycle facilities along with lighting at the roundabout will also be improved.

Councillor Eddie Johnson, deputy to the cabinet member for highways and transportation at Essex County Council, said: "This is a tremendous set of improvements for the Harlow area that will ease traffic congestion considerably."

Tony Durcan, Harlow Council's portfolio holder for resources & enterprise, said: "These works are being carried out by Essex County Council but we will be working with them to ensure that everything is done to minimise disruption at rush hour and other key times."

"This is a busy part of the town but the improvements this work will bring to Harlow are of great importance in helping create jobs and business growth in future and improve traffic flow for everyone."

The work is due to start just as construction work on major improvements to the Burnt Mill roundabout near Harlow Town Station, which started last October, is coming to an end.

Police appeal witnesses to street assault

A MAN suffered a serious head injury following an altercation in Harlow on Tuesday afternoon.

The assault took place in Three Horseshoes Road shortly after 4pm. The victim, a man in his 50s, was taken to Princess Alexandra Hospital.

An 18-year-old man was arrested on suspicion of causing grievous bodily harm.

Police are appealing for witnesses to contact them on the non-emergency 101 number.

Young accordionist Ciaran scoops top national prize

A YOUNG music maestro from Sawbridgeworth has been awarded first place in the UK championships for accordion playing.

Ciaran Gilligan, 9, from The Chestnuts, sailed through the first heat of the competition and received a first place prize in the under 10s category.

The High Wych Primary School pupil, pictured left, has been playing accordion since he was six. He can also play piano.

Proud mum Tina, 50, said: "It was the UK Championships in Liverpool which is an annual competition but it was the first time Ciaran has done anything like that."

She added: "He started in school playing the piano when he was five and the same teacher also teaches the accordion."

Governors of failing school 'had a plan but got no support'

GEMMA GARDNER

A GOVERNOR at a Harlow primary school where standards of education were judged to be "unacceptably low" has criticised plans to force it to become an academy.

The governor, who asked not to be named, served on the board of Longwood Primary and Nursery School, in Paringdon Road, for 12 years before it was replaced with an interim executive board by Essex County Council in February.

This week he told the Star the governors had plans to turn the school around but had been let down by County Hall and education watchdog Ofsted.

And he claimed the plans to turn the school into an academy were drawn up without parents and staff being consulted.

"They didn't give us any support," he said. "The governors were pushed into a corner, we got no support from the local education authority.

"The governors were good and the leadership was good. We had a plan and we were talking with other local schools, but all of that was taken away from us."

The school was placed in special measures in December but the quality of education continued to decline and in February Essex County Council appointed an Interim Executive Board which was given the task of raising standards.

The council is now seeking a "strong sponsor" ahead of changing the school into an academy in the near future.

Last night (Wednesday) parents were invited to a meeting with the interim team and council representatives to discuss the current situation.

A council spokeswoman said: "Since the recent Ofsted visit we have worked closely with the school to raise standards."

"We are keen to support a strong academy bid so that the school recovers quickly. The academy bid has been accepted by the Department for Education and the interim executive board will be contacting parents shortly with further news."

"The way forward will be subject to a consultation with parents."

Give us more time to digest
the implications of Local Plan

SIR Harlow Council has been carrying out consultations on its proposals for a new Local Plan. In summary it is suggesting the town requires up to a further 10,500 new homes by 2031 in addition to the 4,500 that already have planning permission.

However, few people in Harlow appear to be aware of this consultation. Could it be the council wishes to complete this activity with a minimum of public involvement?

Why were the two publications 'Harlow 2031 - Have Your Say' and 'Harlow's Local Development Plan Questionnaire' not sent to every household in the town? There were small exhibitions in the Civic Centre and five libraries with one poorly advertised open session with council staff at Latton Bush and one other meeting.

Anyone who managed to get hold of the publications would have needed to refer to the 181 pages of the full consultation documents which were only for reference at the exhibitions or go online. Thus only a small number of residents have been able to access the information necessary to form an opinion.

The Harlow 2031 document is extremely difficult to read and poorly presented. It is difficult to see how the new homes would impact on the town and what infrastructure - roads, schools etc - would be put in place.

In addition, there must be concern that in the majority of examples shown there would be a loss of existing open spaces, playing fields and playgrounds across Harlow from Deer Park in the west to Old Harlow in the east.

The period for this consultation was extremely short. As residents we need to be involved in open discussions to fully appreciate the aims of the Local Plan and its impact on all of us.

We would urge the council to review its consultation process, extend the period and have open forum/meetings across Harlow. The council should also let us know how the Local Plan will be affected by neighbouring councils who seem to be planning their own housing on Harlow's boundaries which will impact dramatically on the town.

We must guard against threat to Harlow's recreation spaces

SIR I was shocked to see in a report arising from the studies on Harlow's growth options that a number of potential sites are listed which include some of our choicest recreational spaces.

In Great Parndon they include (76) Rectory Field Playing Field and (71) Playing Field west of Deer Park. Although these areas have not yet been assigned, their presence in the list is ominous.

Never mind Green Belt, these are precious spaces for our community, for children to play, for responsible dog owners to walk their pets and for old people to breathe in the sunshine. They should not even be considered as potential building land.

If the Government is serious about growth and expansion of Harlow, urgent action is needed by the Communities Secretary to redraw Harlow's borders so that more land is made available. The district should coincide with the constituency so that we are not always looking inward for housing land and becoming ever more congested.

Reader Robin Winterford sent in this picture taken in the back garden of his home in Fennells, Harlow. "We were sitting having tea and cake when the robin decided to join us," he writes.

If you have a photo taken in or around the town which you would like to feature in our Photo of the Week section, email a high resolution copy in JPEG format, along with a description of your photo and details of when and where it was taken, to star@hertsessexnews.co.uk. Include your name and address and insert 'Photo of the Week' in the subject line.

At the same time the council should stand firm on a resolution which was passed unanimously at least twice during the past 12 years, that there should not be any major housebuilding project unless the appropriate infrastructure is provided beforehand or at least simultaneously.

Having said that, I must say that the so-called housing targets are a fiction, fabricated by a regional assembly which no longer exists. They would not solve our housing problems as they are not intended to deliver council houses. The "affordable housing" they speak of is out of reach of the homeless, the low-paid and the vulnerable, for whom we must have a safety net.

It seems to me that we must not only guard against traveller incursions into our green spaces, we must also watch out for invasions by planners, bureaucrats and greedy building companies who see our playing fields as a potential source of handsome profits.

Just because many of our residents originated from the east end of London, this does not mean that they have to accept being crammed into ever-smaller areas and endure traffic congestion for ever after. We want Harlow to grow healthy and beautiful as it was meant to be.

The time has come to remove politics from local councils

SIR Once again the electors of Harlow, or rather the small number who bothered to vote, have made the mistake of voting for a party rather than the candidate who is going to best serve them.

Our local councillor has far more impact on our day-to-day lives than an MP and so should be elected using the 'best person for the job' scenario rather than the 'don't vote for this or that party' way of looking at it.

Perhaps the time has come to remove politics from local councils and have them run by local business people, professionals and some local residents who just want to do their best for the town rather than having a political axe to grind and points to score off each other.

Bill Rees
Longbarks, Harlow

Elections are no longer part of any real democratic process

SIR Before all the political parties, successful or unsuccessful, get carried away by the election results they should reflect on the main lesson which they have consistently failed to address for many years.

Elections are no longer part of any real democratic process. In Harlow, as elsewhere, twice as many people didn't vote as voted for all the candidates put together. These are the vast majority and they remain unrepresented. Moreover, in not a single ward did the successful candidate win a majority of votes cast.

One thing is clear, those elected can in no way claim to represent the people of Harlow and they should have the honesty to acknowledge this before they make decisions. It would reflect the true representation if the council chamber, instead of having 33 seats, had 100 seats 67 of which were to remain empty.

The democratic process is further weakened when the first thing the council will do is to elect from its 33 unrepresentative councillors a group of eight to form an inner cabinet, who are paid extra to do the work which in the past was done by councillors in committee for free. This takes decisions even further from the electorate and puts power into the hands of even fewer people.

A first move to re-establishing democracy would be for members to immediately abolish the cabinet and return power to the councillors, thus providing some accountability of both the executive and officers who at present run the town. If they fail to do this then there should be a non-party petition from the electorate to abolish it.

Even more important than these local reforms is the need for political parties to encourage and support political education and debate rather than confine themselves to the present misinformation which is provided just before elections.

Our society is generally politically ignorant and it is in the interest of the tiny elite running the country to allow this to continue. Political parties are not simply there to try to win elections, they have a responsibility to inform, challenge and initiate ideas for the improvement of the lives of all our citizens.

Appalled by state of surface at disabled car parking area

SIR When is there going to be some sanity shown by the powers-that-be regarding the appalling state of the disabled car parking area in the West Gate area of The High?

A few months ago a couple of pavements in the immediate area were resurfaced but the car park was left looking like a bomb site.

The car park has a badly damaged brick surface and is extremely hazardous to walk on even for the able-bodied.

There seems to have been money available to create a mock grass area in front of the former Odeon cinema for young people to consume their lunches and leave their litter. Yet only yards away we have a dangerous surface.

I suppose we will be told it is the responsibility of someone else - but then it always is.

Jo West
East Park Harlow

Why was there no warning about closure of roundabout?

SIR I'm sure I am not the only one who is fed up with the continuing works and hold-ups on the Burnt Mill roundabout, but I have to say that finding the road closed at 10pm on my way home from work without prior warning is ridiculous.

I drive across this roundabout daily and after the first surprise closure a couple of weeks ago I purposefully looked for advanced closure warnings. There were certainly none clearly visible. Maybe it is behind all the works vans currently parked in the bus lane?

I've yet again finished a shift tonight to find the road closed and in total darkness and had to detour through Gilston. Please have some consideration for those of us who don't work from 9-5.

Labour group leader set for council role

LABOUR councillor Jon Clempner has said he is looking forward to making a "positive difference" after being elected leader of the Labour group on Harlow Council.

Cllr Clempner, who represents the Little Parndon and Hare Street Ward, is now poised to become the next leader of the council.

He will succeed current leader Mark Wilkinson, who announced before last month's local elections that he would be stepping down from the post.

An official announcement is due to be made at the council's annual meeting next Thursday. Although Cllr Wilkinson's successor has still to be formally ratified by the council, it is expected Cllr Clempner will take over the position.

This week he told the Star: "I am grateful for the support and confidence Labour councillors have shown in me by electing me."

"While I am under no illusion that it will be anything other than an extremely challenging year, we have a strong team in place to face those challenges and I look forward to showing the positive difference a Labour council can make."

"I will be making sure that we have fairness at the heart of all that we do, reflect the priorities of Harlow people, and work towards making Harlow a better place."

Cllr Wilkinson has served as leader of the Labour group for six years and leader of the council since May 2012. He will continue to represent the Harlow Common ward.

OVER TO YOU: Mark Wilkinson, right, and Jon Clempner

It was cowardly but older people are easy targets

A CONVICTED burglar who gave advice on crime prevention to a Neighbourhood Watch meeting in Harlow said he targeted the elderly and vulnerable because they were easy targets.

The man, named only as Paul, was sentenced to three years in prison for committing a string of distraction burglaries.

"I always targeted an older person, a vulnerable person who would be more trusting," he told the meeting organised by Harlow Neighbourhood Watch and held in the Civic Centre.

"It was a cowardly act but I justified it in my mind as it was just money. I never took personal belongings."

"I do not fit the common stereotype of what a criminal looks like and I exploited that to get into people's homes."

"It all came down to greed and laziness. It was an easy way to make an easy living."

Paul, who used to have a job selling and fitting carbon monoxide detectors before turning to a life of crime, said: "The first time I was fitting a detector the lady asked me how much. I said it was £60 and she went into her bedroom and came out with an envelope filled with £20 notes."

"She took three out and gave them to me. I took the envelope after asking her for a glass of water and there was £3,000 inside."

"After that my whole process was just to get money."

Since getting out of jail Paul has become a reformed character and uses his experiences to offer advice on how to deter burglars.

"Simple things like signs saying 'thieves beware, you are being watched' are a massive deterrent," he told the meeting. "I wouldn't know who was watching and from where. Any sort of deterrent would cause me to leave the area straight away."

BIANCA CASTRO

bianca.castro@hertsessexnews.co.uk

Neighbourhood watch stickers, CCTV cameras and men's boots were also included.

"Men's working boots left outside the house were a massive deterrent," he said. "I wanted to avoid any possible confrontation so I avoided any houses that looked like they belonged to young people or families, or had children living there."

And he stressed the importance of asking all callers to show identification before letting them in.

"It is very important to raise awareness and to warn those that could be victims. People are very trusting so it's important that you ask for ID because a professional will always wait."

"When I was asked for ID I would say it was in my van and I would go and get it. Then I'd just leave the area, I wouldn't go back."

At the end of his talk Paul answered several questions from the audience.

Harlow Neighbourhood Watch secretary Paul Wadley said: "We believe this to be unique – for a perpetrator of distraction burglaries to attend a public meeting."

"There have been recent incidents of distraction burglaries in the town. The current trend is using the excuse to be looking for something in the back garden. When confronted by the resident their accomplice enters the front of the home to steal valuables and cash."

He added: "It is our intention to make our meetings more informative. We have identified speakers from within the judiciary and the legal system, domestic abuse programmes and drug rehabilitation teams to provide an overview of their work."

Man accused of threats to kill police

A MAN accused of threatening to kill four police officers was remanded in custody when he appeared in court on Monday.

Robert Spicer, 39, of Wedgewood Drive, Harlow, was charged with assaulting and threatening to kill the officers at his home address on Sunday. He is also accused of setting fire to a car, criminal damage and harassment relating to mobile phone messages.

Magistrates at Chelmsford refused an application for bail made on his behalf and he was ordered to appear at Chelmsford Crown Court on August 11 for a plea and case management hearing.

Spicer, who appeared in court wearing standard custody clothing, was led away to the cells in handcuffs after the hearing.

Reporting restrictions were not lifted.

Successful end to search for children

A POLICE search for three youngsters – two girls aged 12 and 13 and a 15-year-old boy – who were reported missing in Harlow ended when all three turned up safe and well.

Two of the trio were found on Saturday morning after police made a public appeal for information.

The third ran off but returned home the following day.

BUSINESS NEWS

Two-wheel enthusiast David has everything a cyclist could need

BIANCA CASTRO

bianca.castro@hertsexnews.co.uk

A CYCLE enthusiast who races bikes has opened his own shop to cash in on the growing popularity of the activity.

David Wales opened Lea Valley Cycles in The Stow earlier this year. As well as selling new mountain and road bikes, children's bikes and accessories he offers a range of other cycle-related services.

The first-time businessman builds custom-made bikes and offers adjustments to customers' own machines.

Mr Wales, who has raced mountain bikes for the past 10 years, said it is his passion that sets him apart from other bicycle retailers.

"I'm very passionate about bikes or I would not be in this business," he said. "I have raced mountain bikes for about 10 years. My mum and dad used to race years and years ago and I kind of picked it up from them."

"Business is growing and we offer a range of services here. I have been repairing bikes for the past seven years but this is my first business."

He added: "We sell a range of bikes and accessories as well. We also do service repairs and build special, custom-built bikes.

"I also offer advice to anybody coming in that wants to find out more about bikes."

Mr Wales used to look for old abandoned cycles which he then reported to police. If they were unclaimed and after he had found several, he would make a new one from the parts and then give it away.

"I never charged for that, it was just about getting people cycling," he said.

Lea Valley Cycles is open seven days a week. To find out more visit the website at www.leavalleycycles.co.uk or call (01279) 897900.

Business is growing fast at Vintage Rose hair salon

A BUSINESSWOMAN has decided to go it alone in a bid to give her customers the high quality treatment she wants them to have.

Since 24-year-old Natalie opened Vintage Rose Hairdressers in Bush Fair with business partner Sarah Carman earlier this year business has been booming.

"This is my first business although I worked at other salons before I opened Vintage Rose," she said.

"I have always wanted to be a hairdresser and I decided to set up on my own because I wanted to give all my customers the same high quality treatment."

"I think hair is an extension of your personality and I want everyone to be able to show theirs. I think I'm the person that can help people do that."

To book an appointment, call (01279) 411348 or email hair@vintagerosehair.co.uk.

Joanne's meals on wheels

A RESTAURANT which brings a taste of London's East End to Harlow and Sawbridgeworth will soon be offering its customers a delivery service following the purchase of a new van.

Maltings in Sawbridgeworth last year and has bought the vehicle to start home deliveries.

"We will be trialling the van next Friday and Saturday but the response to deliveries has been really positive so far so hopefully it's just another step in Lil's growth," she said.

"We also offer outside catering to events and special occasions so things are going well at the moment."

Customers will be required to pre-order their delivery during the trial period. For more information, contact Lil's Pie and Mash on (01279) 600017.

Ink manufacturer banking on success of new project

A COMPANY which produces specialist printing inks has embarked on a new project to develop patterned optically variable inks for banknotes and other high security documents using sound waves.

Luminescence International Ltd based at The Fairway will be able to take on more staff and increase exports at the Harlow facility if the project is successful.

The sound waves will arrange the pigments in the ink into designs that can be used to make sure the document is genuine.

Shopping centre hosts animals for a day at the farm

YOUNGSTERS were able to feed and stroke a variety of animals when part of the Harvey Centre was transformed into a spring farm on Friday.

There was a chance to come face-to-face with a Shetland pony, chickens, rabbits and a guinea pig as well as some more exotic creatures including a skunk, an African pygmy hedgehog, snakes, lizards, tortoises and even a tarantula.

Staff from Magic Moment Animal Parties were on hand to help children feed and pet the animals.

Centre manager Bryan Young said: "It was a great success. We had lots of families visiting throughout the whole day and it was continuously busy.

"The children loved petting and learning all about the animals on offer - from the more usual rabbits and chickens to more exotic animals and everyone fell in love with the Shetland Pony.

"We also had face painting, and children who signed up to our free kids club were given a welcome goody bag."

The centre has a number of family-focused events planned throughout the summer.

Bus service may be axed to save cash

SIX bus routes including one operating in Harlow could be axed by Essex County Council in a shake-up of public transport funded by the authority.

The future of the 347 Monday to Saturday service from Harlow to Hatfield Broad Oak is under review as it one of the routes which County Hall has said is proving too expensive to continue.

The council currently pays for more than 200 bus services which commercial companies do not consider profitable enough to run.

Council policy is to pay no more than £5 per passenger although it has set a maximum of £6 per passenger as that policy is itself under review. The cost per passenger on the 347 route, which is operated by First Essex Buses, is £6.80.

In addition to the six routes under threat, the council has also decided to stop the 6.40am service on the number 14 route from Staple Tye to Templefields.

The service is used on average by only two passengers each day and is considered too expensive. It will cease to run after August 30.

Council leader David Finch said: "We need to ensure we have services that deliver value for money to local residents. This includes reviewing services to see if we can fund or provide them differently."

All the contracts will continue to operate until August 30 when the current contracts expires. No decision has been made yet about what will happen after then.

On Monday the council launched a consultation to gauge the views of people using the six routes. Their views will be taken into account before a final decision is taken.

Anyone wanting to take part should send their comments to the Passenger Transport Liaison Team, STC, Essex County Council, Council, County Hall, Chelmsford, Essex, CM1 1QH or send an email to Passenger.TransportLiaison@essex.gov.uk.

The consultation runs until Friday, June 27.

Toby, 8, wins bridge design competition

A BUDDING architect has won a national competition to have his design for a bridge displayed in an iconic London river crossing.

Toby Ayres, 8, of Church Langley, Harlow, decided to enter Tower Bridge's design a bridge competition with his creation of The Great British Fish and Chips Bridge.

The judges awarded the talented youngster first place in the national competition, praising his design which they said was beautifully executed and perfectly captured the spirit of the competition.

The competition was run as part of Tower Bridge's 120th birthday celebrations and open to children aged 6-14 who were invited to design the "second most famous bridge in the world". Hundreds of entries were submitted.

Toby, who attends Churchgate Street Primary School and wants to be an architect when he grows up, saw his design transformed into a 3D model

bianca.castro@hertsessexnews.co.uk

when it was unveiled at Tower Bridge on Thursday.

The model will now be on public display in the Tower Bridge exhibition until the end of August.

Toby's mum Jemma said: "It was great fun and he loved every minute of it. The model was done beautifully and he definitely still wants to be an architect."

"It has boosted his confidence, especially as he has not won anything before."

"We are so proud. We were taken on a guided tour of Tower Bridge and then Toby unveiled his bridge. It was really lovely."

Judge Isabel Wolfe Barry, the great great granddaughter of the bridge's original civil engineer Sir John Wolfe Barry, said: "The judges were extremely impressed by the entries that we received. There are some very talented young people out there which bodes well for the bridges of the future."

Mum pens book to raise charity funds

A YOUNG boy's illness has inspired a mother to write a children's book - with all profits going to a charity started in his name.

Susan Auzou, 51, who grew up in Harlow and now lives in Sawbridgeworth, has written Tommy's Tomatoes in aid of seven-year-old Harrison Smith who was diagnosed with Duchenne Muscular Dystrophy.

The book will raise money for Harrison's Fund, a charity funding research into the genetic condition.

Mum-of-two Susan said: "I knew I needed to do something special to show my support. My friend Aileen's son Elliott suffers from the same disease so I am aware of the massive impact it can have."

Tommy's Tomatoes is available on Amazon UK.

Last call to cycle route of the Tour

CYCLISTS in Harlow are being urged to sign up to ride part of the Tour de France route in aid of a children's charity.

Those taking part have the choice of three distances covering 100, 60 or 39 miles through Essex.

Simon Thomson, director of cycle event organisers Kilo to Go which has teamed up with national charity Caudwell Children, said: "The Wiggle Essex Explorer follows the same route as the 2014 Tour De France stage three."

"This is a rare chance for cyclists to ride the same roads that four weeks later will be contested by the best riders in the world."

For more information on the event and to register visit www.caudwellchildren.com/fundraising-and-events or call 01782 600435.

Offering advice on crime prevention

ESSEX Police is teaming up with Harlow Council and Epping Council to hold a community engagement event at which they will offer advice on reducing crime and anti-social behaviour.

The Neighbourhood Policing Team will be at the McDonald's restaurant at Hastingwood on Saturday.

Officers will also be on hand to security tag bicycles and help people record details of their electronic gadgets.

The event will take place from 9am-5pm.

World Cup warning in summer drink-drive crackdown

BIANCA CASTRO

bianca.castro@hertsessexnews.co.uk

POLICE in Essex have launched their summer anti-drink-drive campaign with a warning to motorists to beware the morning after.

This year's operation, which coincides with the World Cup in Brazil, will see officers targeting drivers who may be over the limit from the night before having stayed up late watching matches.

As well as breath tests, officers will be testing drivers for drug use with roadside impairment tests.

Casualty reduction manager Adam Pipe said: "Sadly, some people consider themselves to be above the law and make the decision to get behind the wheel under the influence of alcohol, drugs or both. Not only does this put their lives at risk but the lives of their passengers or other innocent road users."

He added: "The morning after can be just as dangerous as the night before, so if you've been drinking into the night you will not be fit to drive the morning after."

On average it takes an hour to process a single unit of alcohol, starting from one hour after you first consume alcohol. If you have three 250ml glasses of wine it could be up to nine hours or more before you are sober. Even then it is not an exact science as everyone's metabolism is different.

Of the 2,616 drivers breathalysed during the summer campaign last year, 94 (3.59 per cent) were found to be driving over the legal alcohol limit or refused or failed to provide a sample.

Of those found to be over the limit, 21 were aged under 25 and 61 were aged 25 and over. An age breakdown was not available for the remaining 12.

The campaign runs until the end of June. Officers will be stepping up road checks in towns across the county with bustling night-time economies and rural areas where some drivers believe they have less chance of getting caught.

Police said everyone can help to keep the roads safe by:

- stopping family and friends getting behind the wheel if they have had an alcoholic drink;
 - dialling 999 if they know someone is drunk and see them getting behind the wheel of a car;
 - calling Essex Police on 101 to give police information about someone who regularly chooses to drink and drive; and
 - telling Crimestoppers anonymously about people who regularly choose to drink and drive by calling 0800 555111 or visiting www.crimestoppers-uk.org.
- "Drink-driving risks lives," said a police spokesman. "It can result in a criminal record, the loss of a driving licence or a fine of up to £5,000. "More seriously, it can kill or injure someone and leave the driver facing up to 14 years in prison and having to live with their actions for the rest of their lives."

Fun in store as Asda staff urge customers to join Midnight Walk

FUNDRAISERS at St Clare Hospice enlisted the help of staff from the Asda supermarket in Harlow to encourage shoppers to sign up for this month's Star-backed Midnight Walk.

Checkout staff at the Water Gardens store dressed up in Midnight Walk T-shirts, leg warmers and tutus to promote the 1980s-themed walk which will start and finish outside the supermarket on Saturday, June 28.

The staff were joined by hospice events fundraiser Rebecca Barnett as they handed out hundreds of registration forms and balloons urging shoppers to sign up for either the 5km or 10km walk.

They will also be taking part as the Asda Angels.

"We were delighted that Asda invited us to come along and promote the Midnight Walk on Friday," said Rebecca. "The response from customers was really positive and we hope that all those who took a registration form will join us on the 28th."

"Whether you are from a pub or a club, a slimming group or sports team, the Midnight Walk is ideal to enjoy as a group."

Already signed up are teams from three schools, a Girl Guides troop and members of a netball club.

Registration for teams of six or more is £10 per person, with a minimum sponsorship pledge of £300.

To register to take part - either as a team or an individual - call the St Clare fundraising office on (01279) 773750 or visit www.stclarehospice.co.uk/midnight.html.

Special day to show your father how much you care

FATHER'S Day is held on the third Sunday of June - this year it is June 15 - and it's an opportunity to show your father and father figures such as grandfathers and fathers-in-law just how much you care.

Whether it's just taking the time to visit them or to send a card or gift, it's always worth making an effort.

Some dads are so easy to shop for. Get them something related to their favourite hobby and you know you'll be on to a winner - golf balls, fishing tackle, gym wear or an iTunes gift card will usually go down a treat for those who enjoy such pastimes.

On the other hand there are plenty of men who require days devoted to thinking of some clever and unexpected gift ideas. If you have one of those men in your life why not think outside the box this year and treat them to something unexpected?

For example, why not book a local course for him or give him a voucher to spend on something he'd never normally consider? A treatment at a spa, for example, or cookery or computer lessons?

If finances are a little stretched then why not rally a few family members and get together for a few hours? It could be anything from a simple walk in the countryside to a whole planned 'experience' day trip.

And don't forget, there aren't many fathers who wouldn't appreciate sitting down to a delicious home cooked meal with their family.

Hunt for 'ill-looking' flasher who targeted schoolgirl

POLICE hunting a man who exposed himself to a teenage girl as she was waking to school on three separate days have released an efit picture of the suspect.

The man, who is described as "almost ill-looking", flashed at the 16-year-old victim in the Felmongers area of Harlow on May 19, 20 and 21.

All three incidents took place between 8.30am and 8.45am.

He is thought to be in his mid to late 40s and 5ft 7in-5ft 9in tall.

He has light coloured hair which is receding and is of skinny build.

On all three occasions he was wearing grey jogging bottoms and a grey and blue jacket.

PC Craig Davey, who is leading the investigation, appealed for any other victims who had had not reported similar incidents to the police to get in touch.

"I would also ask anyone who recognises the man to contact me at Harlow police station on 101," he added.

County's review sparks fears of 84p increase for meals on wheels

ESSEX County Council has started a review of its Meals on Wheels service, leading to claims that the elderly could be forced to choose between food or heat.

County Hall has said increasing pressure on funding combined with a reduction in the numbers of people currently using the service means it needs to examine how it is provided.

One possibility is an 84p increase in the price charged to those receiving meals.

The council has embarked on a six-week consultation with customers and the wider public in order to "understand the impact" any changes to the provision of the service would have.

It will explore alternative ways of providing a hot meal, community support options such as lunch clubs and community groups and removing or reducing the subsidy paid by the council.

Essex county councillor Anne Brown, cabinet member for adult social care, said: "I am aware that for some residents meals on wheels is a vital service.

"However, as alternative options have appeared in the market such as supermarket home delivery and community lunch clubs, the number of customers has fallen which means it is difficult to continue to provide the service in its current guise and provide value for money for taxpayers."

Suzy Stride, Labour's parliamentary candidate for Harlow, said: "If the 84p subsidy for each hot meal were to be passed on to the resident, a user who receives a free meal five days a week all year round would need to find an extra £218 a year to continue receiving meals.

"This is on top of careful spending of winter fuel payments which are vital for the most vulnerable elderly residents in Essex.

"If adopted by the Conservative administration, this cruel policy could force pensioners to make a choice in some cases of whether to pay the increase for a hot meal or to break into their annual heating allowances which would take a large chunk of their heating money.

gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

"It could be a stark choice of whether they eat or heat their home in winter months."

Harlow councillor Mike Danvers, who also represents the Harlow North division on Essex County Council, said: "Once again the Tories are making the elderly choose between heating and eating.

"Let those councillors pay for their free meals and make up the spending that way. There are revenue spends such as members' free members lunches which could be used to help reduce the burden of passing the cost on to this vulnerable group of residents.

"The annual spend by the council on member lunches alone could easily subsidise every user of Meals On Wheels in the Harlow district who receives a hot meal five times a week.

"It was only last week the council stated publicly that they were in a better position financially to stop the school patrol crossing cuts. I urge the Conservative administration to think carefully about carrying out this painful policy."

The consultation will run until July 7. All customers will receive a copy of the consultation in the post, along with support and guidance on how to complete the survey. The consultation can also be found online at <http://bit.ly/1ouQ8cc>.

The county council will collate and analyse all responses which will then form the basis of a report putting forward suggestions on a future pricing structure.

It hopes to provide feedback on the consultation in the summer.

£1m kick-start for new community fund

A NEW fund to encourage and strengthen community activities in Essex has been given a £1m kick-start.

The Community Resilience Fund is being launched by Essex County Council with support from the county's police and fire services.

It will give financial assistance to voluntary organisations and projects with the aim of strengthening community-led activities.

The fund will be managed by the Essex Community Foundation.

County councillor John Jowers, cabinet member for libraries, communities and planning, said: "I am delighted that, by establishing this fund we have been able to find another way to contribute to communities and voluntary organisations in Essex.

"This is a strategic partnership between the county council and other local public agencies and I hope it will make a big difference to many people's lives."

For more information about the fund and when grants will be available, call (01245) 356018 or visit www.essexcommunityfoundation.org.

Playtime is much more fun with new equipment

ST ALBAN'S ACADEMY
Children are making the most of a new play area at the First Avenue school.

The school, which is part of the Our Lady of Fatima Catholic multi-academy, has given the playground a makeover with a playhouse and new climbing frames.

Reception class teacher Saye Linden said: "The playground is for our reception year and it hasn't been refurbished in over 10 years.

"The children were really excited and are always asking to go out and use the new playground.

"It has provided us with lots more outdoor learning opportunities. Everyday we go outdoors and we're just doing a lot more outside which they love."

Students show off their culinary skills

HARLOW COLLEGE

Students from Harlow College and Herts Regional College showed off their skills in the kitchen with a Masterchef-style mystery box cooking challenge.

Five teams of two were given two hours to create the perfect dish which was judged by guests from the Marriot Hotel in Waltham Abbey as well as a tutor from each college.

Harlow College level 2 hospitality students Jack Stevens and Millie Yates were crowned the winners with their creation of herb-crusted lamb and a deconstructed cheesecake. Their prize was a meal for two at the Marriot Hotel. Stuart Smith, judge and senior tutor at the college, said:

"Everybody demonstrated great skills and initiative to create such amazing dishes."

Young space explorers discover lunar rocks

LITTLE PARNDON PRIMARY Students got the chance to get a close look at pieces of the Moon when lunar rocks and meteorites were loaned to the school for a week.

Year 5 pupils took part in the hands-on experience with the rare collection of rocks as part of a science module.

The samples, which were collected during some of NASA's first manned space missions to the moon, were loaned to the Park Mead school by the UK Science and Technology Facilities Council.

Class teacher Sandra Graham said: "We wanted to enhance the curriculum and make the children think more about space and science to raise aspirations.

"The children were very excited to see the lunar rocks. They were so engaged and desperate to get their hands on them.

"It was a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity."

Woman, 84, victim of telephone fraudsters

AN elderly woman from Harlow has become the latest victim of fraudsters posing as police officers in a sophisticated telephone scam.

The 84-year-old victim lost £500 when she was targeted yesterday (Monday, June 2).

The previous day an 87-year-old from Chigwell was tricked into handing over bank cards that were then used to steal £750 from her bank account.

Seven other people in west Essex received phone calls from the scammers on Sunday and Monday but realised what was happening and alerted police. The attempts were made in Harlow, Theydon Bois, Coopersale, Waltham Abbey and Loughton.

The incidents are the latest in a series in which elderly people have been persuaded into revealing their bank details or handing over bank cards or large sums of money.

The latest fraudsters claimed to be police officers based in Birmingham. They told their victims their bank details had been obtained by thieves who were currently under arrest.

bianca.castro@hertsessexnews.co.uk

To obtain evidence against the suspects the victims were asked to hand over their bank cards for forensic investigation for fingerprints.

The victim in Chigwell was called late on Sunday and was tricked into giving her bank cards to a courier who went to her home at about 11.30pm.

Although she became suspicious and contacted her bank 40 minutes later to stop her cards, they had already been used to withdraw £400 from a bank in Chigwell and a further £350 from a branch in Barking.

More than 780 similar thefts and attempted thefts have been reported in Essex since the scam first came to light in January last year and more than 120 victims have been tricked out of money.

The total stands at more than £400,000.

The work of a special police taskforce set up to tackle phone scams across the region was featured on the BBC's Watchdog programme last night (Wednesday).

D-Day dance to raise funds for WW2 Dakota restoration

FUNDRAISERS will take steps back in time for a D-Day dance at North Weald Airfield next Saturday (June 14).

The dance will be held to commemorate the 70th anniversary of the Normandy landings and will be raising money for the restoration of a Second World War Dakota aircraft.

David Petters, from Bishop's Stortford, arranged for the plane to be taken in parts from RAF Shawbury, Shropshire to North Weald where it is being restored by Dakotair, an organisation of which he is a co-director.

Dakotas played a vital role in the D-Day landings by dropping paratroops and supplies to the forces. It is hoped that when the plane is fully restored it will be used for public flights.

The 1940s themed fundraiser will include music from the John Petters Swing Band and a dance workshop which will give people the chance to brush up on the jive and lindy hop.

The dance starts at 6pm with doors opening at 5pm and the dance workshop commencing at 5.30pm.

Tickets cost £18 in advance or £20 on the door. To book, email davidpetters@rafrtransportcommandmemorial.com.

Town joins purge on street litterbugs in countywide crusade

BIANCA CASTRO

bianca.castro@hertsessexnews.co.uk

HARLOW Council is joining forces with three of the biggest fast food chains in a county-wide crusade to tackle litter.

Local authorities throughout Essex have teamed up with a McDonald's, KFC and Domino's Pizza in the campaign to raise awareness of litter and the threat of fines for those who drop rubbish.

It also has the support of Keep Britain Tidy and The Highways Agency.

The campaign is the first Essex-wide initiative and will see all McDonald's, KFC and Domino's franchises across the county promoting anti-litter messages which will be backed up by local activities and enforcement.

Councillor Phil Waite, portfolio holder for environment at Harlow Council, said: "Keeping the streets clean costs taxpayers over £17m a year in Essex. If people just put their litter in a bin councils could save many thousands of pounds a year and that money could be used to fund vital services for the whole community."

"The cost of picking up litter in Harlow costs local taxpayers close to £2m a year.

"We are pleased that three big fast food companies are joining forces with us to really tackle the issue of litter head on and raise awareness across Essex. They have an important role to play and we hope this will lead to other businesses working with us to tackle litter."

Cherry Lewis Taylor, of McDonald's, said:

"It's vital that everyone takes responsibility for tackling litter. From local businesses like mine to communities and the residents of Essex, we should all make a commitment to help protect our local environment and keep it clean."

"Through this campaign, supported by our restaurants' clean-up events and daily litter patrols, we want to generate awareness of the issues, promote education on how best to dispose of rubbish and encourage everyone to act responsibly and pull together."

Phil Barton, chief executive of Keep Britain Tidy, said: "The Clean Essex partnership where local authorities, businesses and communities are working together to tackle the problem of litter is setting a fantastic example. "The bill for cleaning up litter in England is now close to £1bn a year and this is a price that we can't keep paying. Essex has realised that, by coming together they can make a difference and we commend them for their leadership and focus."

Man cleared of burglary attack after victim says it wasn't him

A JURY took less than an hour to find a Harlow man accused of aggravated burglary not guilty of the offence after the victim said he was not involved.

It was alleged that Mario George, 22, of Pear Tree Mead, was one of a group of three people involved in an incident in which a man was hit on the head with a baseball bat.

George, who was recorded on CCTV entering the block of flats at Willowfield, told police he had only gone there to buy some cannabis. And the victim of the attack, Paul Stone, told the jury he knew the defendant and said he was not part of the gang.

The court heard Mr Stone was awakened in the early hours of the morning by people shouting they were police officers and telling him to open his front door.

Jamie Sawyer, prosecuting, said: "As he fumbled, the door was pushed in. Outside there were three men - two masked and one unmasked."

"The man with the baseball bat struck Mr Stone on the head and left arm and the men commented about locating some Somalis and went round the flat. He [Mr Stone] said nobody was there and the three men left without taking anything."

Mr Sawyer said police viewed

CCTV footage which showed a group of men entering the block. They later arrested and interviewed the defendant who originally gave 'no comment' replies before handing officers a prepared statement.

"In it he said he was walking round to buy cannabis and was not part of the gang," said Mr Sawyer. "He said he was not with them."

Giving evidence, Mr Stone said "I got hit on the arm with the baseball bat. They were shouting in the hallway, then the man with the baseball bat was in the front room and the other two went into the bedroom."

"When they came out of the bedroom the one with the baseball bat whacked me on the head and they left."

Mr Stone said he started to panic when he found blood was pouring from the top of his head. He wrapped a towel around the wound and the bleeding stopped.

He said he did not go to hospital or report the incident to police until some time later when he heard his address mentioned when he was at the shops.

He told the jury he knew George, who declined to give evidence in court, and said he was not one of the gang.

Staff at PAH to hold pay demo

UNION members at Harlow's Princess Alexandra Hospital will be staging a one-hour demonstration today (Thursday).

UNISON, which represents nurses, paramedics, healthcare assistants and various other NHS workers, will be holding the lunchtime demo in response to a pay announcement.

Regional organiser Sam said: "Our national health conference last month heard from speaker after speaker angry over the Government's decision to give a derisory one per cent non-consolidated increase."

"The union is now in the process of balloting members in the NHS with the potential to strike."

PAH branch secretary Wanda Forman added: "We're not asking members to strike for one per cent, we're saying strike for a pay award that starts to restore the value of their pay and fight for a living wage for all, because a demoralised and de-motivated workforce is not good for patients."

UNISON members will be demonstrating outside the rear entrance of the Harlow hospital from midday. They are also asking for the public to sign a petition calling for fair pay for NHS staff.

To sign the petition, visit petitions.direct.gov.uk/petitions/64222.

WIN

A family ticket to 200th anniversary celebrations of Lord's Cricket Ground

THIS month's celebrations to mark 200 years of Lord's Cricket Ground is a must-see event for all fans of the game.

On Sunday, June 22 the first ever match played at the ground on the same day back in 1814 will be recreated when Marylebone Cricket Club (MCC) will take on Hertfordshire.

It is a unique anniversary day fixture to celebrate Lord's bicentenary year and a chance to dig out the blanket and head down to the home of cricket for a fun family day!

This week we are giving you the chance to be there by winning a family ticket. With former international players giving unique Masterclass sessions in the MCC Academy, there will be action on and off the pitch with live music, wine and champagne tasting, a food festival and something for the children, too, with magicians, funfair stalls and face painting!

For a chance to win, all you have to do is answer this simple question:

In what year was the first ever match played at Lord's Cricket Ground?

You can email your answer to competitions@hertsessexnews.co.uk making sure you put 'Star Lord's' in the subject line. Alternatively, enter online at www.harlowstar.co.uk/Whats-On-Leisure and follow the entry instructions.

The closing date for entries is Tuesday, June 10.

We owe so much to all our 'priceless' volunteers

WITH the start of Volunteers' Week on Sunday, St Clare Hospice has been celebrating the contribution of the hundreds of people who give up their time to support its work.

The hospice has an army of volunteers whose ages range from ages 16 - 92 and who help out in a variety of roles - from supporting people attending day therapy and making cups of teas for families visiting the inpatient unit to serving customers in its seven shops or lending a hand at fund-raising events.

"We are privileged to have more than 500 volunteers and although we appreciate every day the precious time they give, national Volunteers' Week is devoted entirely to celebrating the wonderful contribution they make," said St Clare voluntary services manager Christine Crump.

"During this week we recognise each and every volunteer by thanking them in a special way throughout the hospice and showcasing the work they do. The skill, dedication and commitment they bring to St Clare cannot be underestimated and their value to the hospice, and most importantly the people we care for, is priceless."

The youngest volunteer is 16-year-old student Jimmy Ball, who lends a hand to the facilities and fundraising teams.

"Every week I'm doing something different, whether it is helping with maintenance jobs around the hospice or helping out in fund-raising," he said. "Whatever it is, I have fun and it allows me to see all aspects of the hospice."

"Also, it's a great way for me to give something back to the people who cared for my Nan and to help them to do the same for others in a similar situation."

Retired grandmother-of-three Barbara MacDonald has been volunteering at the inpatient unit for almost 13 years, attending to patients' every need.

Her duties include ensuring the patient and visitor kitchen is fully stocked, taking lunch orders and making sure patients are comfortable.

"Whatever the patients need I try to provide for them, even if it's just sitting having a chat," she said. "Sometimes I think us volunteers get more out of it than the patients."

Former RAF pilot Robin Ekblom, pictured top, joined the hospice as a volunteer handyman in 2008. A skilled furniture maker, he can turn his hand to any task the facilities team throws his way, from putting up shelves to hanging pictures. In his own words, Robin "generally does what he is told!"

"I've had a good life and volunteering at the hospice is my way of giving something back," he said.

St Clare stalwart Ellen Long, pictured below, will be a familiar face to many as one of the hospice's regular street collectors. She can often be seen shaking her St Clare tin outside the local supermarkets - recently collecting £129 in just over an hour by encouraging shoppers at the Sainsbury's store in Harlow to part with their loose change.

"One man gave me £5 as soon as he saw me wearing the St Clare tabard," she said. "I do like to rattle my tin so people know I'm there and people are incredibly generous. I find that a smile goes a long way."

If someone needs help getting from A to B then retired company director Steve Edgley is one of the people the hospice turns to. He clocks up an average of 600 miles a month as one of St Clare's volunteer drivers.

The grandfather-of-three is always on hand to provide lifts to those attending day therapy and sometimes helps relatives visiting a loved one in the inpatient unit.

"I recently picked up a gentleman whose wife was here at the hospice," he said. "He'd tried coming here by bus and it had taken about three hours and when you hear things like that then I just have to make myself available."

Marilyn Coleclough is one of the hospice's longest serving volunteers, having been fundraising for more than two decades. As the founding chairman of the Loughton Friends Group, she has helped raise thousands and thousands of pounds for St Clare.

Marilyn, who volunteers at the Debben shop one afternoon a week, was inspired to start fundraising after her late husband George was diagnosed with a brain tumour.

"I could see that the hospice was a vital service and I still do," she said. "There will always be people who need the help and support St Clare provides. It's been a very personal journey for me the last 20 years but one I have really enjoyed."

"Volunteering is one of the best things I have ever done; I'm still as passionate about St Clare as I was all those years ago."

Fossilised croc tooth 'largest in UK'

THIS fossilised tooth from a prehistoric crocodile is the largest ever recorded of its kind in the UK.

The tooth, which measures 5.5cm long, was dug up from the sea bed near Chesil Beach in Dorset. It belonged to an ancient relative of modern crocodiles known as Dakosaurus maximus.

Scientists from the University of Edinburgh think the Dakosaurus maximus grew to about 4.5 metres in length and swam in the shallow seas of Europe 152 million years ago.

The shape of its skull and teeth suggest it ate similar food to killer whales, using its broad, short jaws to swallow fish whole and to bite chunks from larger prey.

The tooth, which has a broken tip, is now in the fossil collection at the Natural History Museum in London.

HARLOW BUSINESS EXHIBITION

Harlow Leisurezone, Harlow Tuesday 10th June 2014, 10am - 4pm

NOW in its fifth year, the Harlow Business Exhibition has expanded to 128 stands.

The event is designed to showcase the best of businesses in the area and to demonstrate the huge variety of organisations that are flourishing in difficult trading conditions.

The event, which takes place at Harlow Leisurezone, kicks off at 10am when Harlow MP Robert Halfon will open what he has described as "the biggest and best business event in the East of England". Hundreds of visitors are expected to attend during the day to find out what Harlow companies and voluntary organisations have to offer.

There are four free seminars taking place during the day. The first at 11am will be given by Mary Parsons from Places for People who will be talking about her company's plans for Gilston Park Estate. This will be followed by speakers from Anglia Ruskin University, Harlow Enterprise Zone and Greenway Business Centre. Harlow Business Exhibition co-founder Ian Hudson said: "Our aim has always been to provide a forum for local organisations to showcase their products and services to local people.

"We are delighted with the support we have received again this year. We are looking forward to another great day"

TALENTED performers from across Harlow will take to the stage without the help of a script for an evening of improvised comedy.

The Unimaginatively Titled Improvised Comedy Show will feature the best that Harlow has to offer by way of creativity and talent in an evening of hilarious comedy, according to Jim Thompson, of Thompson Productions.

He explained: "It follows a similar structure to the classic 1980s TV show Whose Line Is It Anyway."

"Two teams will battle it out in a series of games where the audience decides on what the performers will well perform.

"There is no script, no boundaries and no idea what will happen, apart from the fact that everyone, cast and audience alike, will be laughing their way through the evening."

The show will be held at the Victoria Hall theatre in Old Harlow on Saturday, June 28.

Featuring local performers Kirstie Brough, Ben Parsley, Amy Jagers - all previously seen in Victoria Hall's performance of Teachers - Wendy Parsley, Kyle Jagers, Jane Hawkins, Carol Rockey, Jane Prangnell and Jim Thompson.

Jim added: "This really is bringing together the cream of Harlow talent."

Previous improv nights have been hugely successful over the last few years, with The Random Word in 2010 and One Night Only in 2012, and the same team behind those are hoping to work their magic for another evening that will guarantee a brilliant night out.

Tickets can be bought online at www.ticketsource.co.uk/tpromotions.

>> Tickets for The Unimaginatively Titled Improvised Comedy Show are £12 (£10 concessions) and the performance starts at 8pm.

Doc to headline at Linkfest warm-up

HARLOW'S Linkfest returns this year, bigger and better than ever before with 1980s chartoppers Dr and The Medics headlining. The annual free festival kicks off with a warm-up show at Harlow Town Park on June 29.

Dr and The Medics, who topped the UK singles charts with their cover version of the hit Spirit in the Sky in 1986, will be playing alongside last years battle of the bands winners Echo Land.

The festivities continue on August 23-24 when more great local bands will be drawing in an enthusiastic crowd.

Linkfest organiser Jamie Pring said: "This year it's going to be bigger and better than before. We have a fantastic line up and more people are aware of the event so the turnout should be great."

"Due to recession and cuts the council can't afford to put stuff on. This is a free event, created by the community for the community."

Linkfest runs from 1.30pm-8.30pm and children's rides and stalls, with performances going on throughout the day. For more information on Linkfest visit <http://linkfestharlow.co.uk/>.

Anniversary show is an amazing celebration

FORGET Britain's Got Talent, Makin' Steps have proved that Harlow's got talent.

Ambitious, breathtaking and in parts jaw-dropping, the performing arts school's amazing anniversary show was an adrenalin-fuelled ride through 30 years of teaching in Harlow.

A breathless journey from street dance to classical ballet and from tap and modern to musical theatre, with beautifully choreographed numbers, the show had the audience on their feet and dancing along.

Any concerns the group might have overstretched themselves were swiftly put to bed with a seamless introductory sequence that had the audience gasping and cheering in equal measures.

And despite some very young performers, the hugely talented cast did not put a foot wrong throughout the three-hour song and dance extravaganza.

As well as dancing - Makin' Steps professional live band - under the musical guidance of Ross Simpson - gave the performance a professional feel that wouldn't be out of place in London's West End.

But it wasn't just the school's obvious flair for showmanship that shone through.

The smiles on the faces of the performers told their own story - one of a committed group of youngsters comfortable in their own ability and grateful for the opportunity to showcase their skills in front of an audience of hundreds.

From the adorable suit-wearing tots to the accomplished adults pulling off gravity-defying routines, the show struck the perfect balance between the cute and the jaw-droppingly acrobatic and really did showcase the talents of every student... and even some of their teachers!

So hats off to Makin' Steps for their fantastic performance and for 30 years of nurturing Harlow's talented young singers and dancers.

Perfect gardening gifts for fathers

HELP gardening dads get to work on their allotments, borders and lawns with the great range of gardening gifts on offer this Father's Day. Choose the right tools and accessories and your dad will soon be making light work of his digging, pruning, staking and clipping. Here's our pick of the crop.

Best foot forward

Footwear is an essential part of comfortable gardening and Backdoorshoes have new designs of Shedshoes with men in mind. They're lightweight, slip on and off easily and the new 'Mulchwood' design makes a change from boring old block colours that you find in other gardening clogs. £20, www.backdoorshoes.co.uk

En-twined

If Dad's always losing his gardening string, splash out on a useful twine dispenser from Nutscene which also incorporates a cutting blade within the 'thistle top' stand for handy cutting and looks great in the potting shed. The dispenser, which is made in the UK from managed forests, includes a ball of jute twine. £16.50, www.nutscene.com

Multi-purpose magic

Garden scissors are a must-have for any gardener but the new Cuts+More multi-tool scissors from Fiskars do much more than cut gardening string. Open them up and you have a wealth of other features including a twine and wire cutter, a power notch for cutting light rope and even a bottle opener if he fancies a beer at the end of the day. £19.99, www.fiskars.co.uk

Bulb planting made easy

At the end of summer, when your dad is thinking about bulb planting but has trouble bending down to plant the narcissi and other spring blooms, an ideal present is Burgon & Ball's new long-handled bulb planter, which was recently nominated as Chelsea Garden Product of the Year. This RHS-endorsed tool slices through soil with ease thanks to its sharp, angled blade. With FSC certified ash handle. £29.95, www.burgonandball.com

Trim-endous

To help keep lawn and borders trim, Dad might welcome one of the new range of cordless grass trimmers from Bosch, including the ART 23-18 LI. The updated cutting system uses Durablades, which last up to 12 times longer than current blades, powered

Time for a cuppa

Budget-conscious buyers may plump for a good old-fashioned enamel mug with an apt comment on it. Perhaps as a variation on the 'Keep Calm' theme, the Wild & Wolf Dig For Victory enamel mug may fit the bill. £6.95, www.wildandwolf.com

Grime-busters

If you want to give him something altogether more stylish and pampering, consider a novel gift from Heyland & Whittle, comprising three bars of natural soap, handmade in England and presented within the pages of a 'book' called Grime & Punishment. £20, www.heylandandwhittle.co.uk

Weather-wise

Style-conscious dads may appreciate some practical and comfortable clothing, such as a handy gardening gilet from Genus. Completely windproof, the lightweight soft shell fabric has a durable water-repellent finish and a soft waffle fleece lining, while fast wicking properties draw moisture away from the body. With a tough lined pocket in the back to secure secateurs or knives. £89, www.genus.gs

ANTIPODES

Comedy cops pack a load of laughs

22 JUMP STREET certificate 15 1h52m

WITH a knowing wink and a profusion of expletives, 22 Jump Street abides by the conventions of a sequel and condemns its dim-witted yet loveable protagonists to relive the plot of the original on a vastly inflated budget.

Tongue-in-cheek, self-referential playfulness abounds in Phil Lord and Christopher Miller's uproarious action-packed comedy which adheres unabashedly to a winning formula and is sprinkled with various in-jokes and sight gags.

It opens with police officers Schmidt (Jonah Hill) and Jenko (Channing Tatum) investigating criminal mastermind The Ghost (Peter Stormare) and continuing to be a liability to the public and each other.

After a sting to capture The Ghost goes bad, Captain Dickson (Ice Cube) recruits the pair for another hare-brained undercover operation. This time, they must pose as college students and unmask the suppliers of a drug called W.H.Y.P.H.Y. (Work Hard? Yes! Play Hard? Yes!).

The narcotic has claimed the life of one girl on campus and Dickson wants to prevent W.H.Y.P.H.Y. spreading across the country. So Schmidt and Jenko adopt their unlikely cover identities and infiltrate different student cliques.

Buff and athletic Jenko becomes a star player on the football team and forges a fraternal bond with kindred spirit Zook (Wyatt Russell). Meanwhile, Schmidt dabbles with slam poetry and becomes attracted to student Maya (Amber Stevens), who lives across the hall from the dead girl with her creepy roommate Mercedes (Jillian Bell).

Wonderful on-screen chemistry between the leads powers the picture through the occasional lull and the scriptwriters have a ball increasing the homoerotic undercurrents of the central bro-mance into an unstoppable flood.

22 Jump Street is as preposterous and laugh-out-loud funny as its predecessor, engineering new perils for the dunderhead double-act as they solve the case with characteristic toe-curling awkwardness. Plot twists aren't entirely unexpected but predictability doesn't spoil our enjoyment one bit as we marvel at Hill and Tatum's willingness to endure bruising physical pratfalls for our amusement.

Of course, there is a smattering of raunchy gags involving sex toys and male appendages but the script's sweetness always trumps crudity.

Ilarious cameos are peppered throughout, even in an extended end credits sequence that suggests Schmidt and Jenko might have a couple more undercover cases in them yet.

Immaculate four-bed home in private road

coverproperty

Location off Mill Lane, Old Harlow
Category Four-bedroom detached
Additional En suite to master bedroom, kitchen/family room, double garage
Guide price £635,000
Agent Howick and Brooker, Gothic House, High Street, Old Harlow.
 Telephone (01279) 418888.

TUCKED away at the back of Churchgate Street in Old Harlow, this four-bedroom house is located in a private road which it shares with just four other homes.

Built in the mid-1980s, the property is in immaculate condition and offers spacious accommodation. As well as four bedrooms there are two bathrooms and it is decorated in clean, light colours with plenty of natural light.

On the ground floor there is a good size hall with doors leading off to a cloakroom, the lounge, dining room and a large kitchen/family room.

The kitchen features a range of fitted units as well as a breakfast area. A separate utility room houses the central heating cupboard and also has doors out to the garden and in to the integral double garage.

Upstairs there are the four bedrooms, all of which are good sizes. There is an en-suite to the master bedroom as well as a family bathroom.

The private, south-westerly facing gardens are mainly laid to lawn with flower borders and are protected by high fencing.

Overlooking a small playing field and allotments, the property has only had two owners since it was built.

For full details of this property or to arrange a viewing, call selling agents Howick and Brooker on (01279) 418888.

Tracey Waples Property Editor

IT'S my birthday today. No ordinary birthday but a great big fat one with a zero at the end. That's as much as you need to know.

To paraphrase Oscar Wilde, never trust a woman who tells her real age. A woman who would tell one that would tell one anything.

Thinking of getting older, I realised that this is the first home I've owned that is younger than me. Everything I've ever lived in has been at least 100 years old, but when we bought our current home we thought we might give ourselves a rest from joys such as crumbling stonework and rusty old pipes.

I always used to think there were two types of buyer – those who would only consider older properties with their character and original features and those who wanted the new smell, low-maintenance new build.

Period properties were derided as money pits by new-home fans while new builds screamed bland and soulless for period property aficionados.

Now, however, attitudes have changed, in no small part due to the change in offerings from house builders. And there's nothing quite like a recession to dampen a Victorian house owner's ardour when it comes to a huge fuel bill!

Whatever you choose, there are often additional costs that are often not taken into account. An enticing showhome may look great with its landscaped garden and stunning kitchen but these can often come at extra cost when you buy the standard version.

Likewise, those moving into their Victorian property may already have an established garden with no extra cost for new turf or landscaping but they won't have the advantages of modern safety regulations such as smoke alarms, high-performance locks, burglar alarms and security lighting which are often a part of new build's specification.

Whatever you choose, make sure you're seeing the whole picture.

The rear garden features wooden decking and lawn.

FASHIONABLY THRIFTY

Fashionable, affordable... The Fiat 500 Popkin comes with 14" steel wheels, electric front windows and electronically adjustable rear mirror. But it's the glasses and elegant bodywork that are only half the story. Just in... it's also fashionably more frugal... with some head-baring technology, don't wrap it - and it's home.

Scrap Cars

End of the road for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle. That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD). A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoring Ilford could only muster 46 in response before they were skittled in an attack led by Sarwat Ali (3-13) and Kyle Farmer (3-11).

Harlow fifths put Leigh-on-Sea fourths in on a difficult wicket, and dismissed them for 77 in 38 overs.

Josh Burns took three wickets and Russell Davies and Bill Pope took two apiece.

Stubborn batting from Harlow just about saw them home, as they finished on 78-8 in the 39th over.

Volleyball club's joy after successful cup defence

HARLOW Volleyball Club's men's team celebrated a brilliant season with two trophies.

The Passmores Academy-based team competed in Colchester where the Essex Volleyball Association organised a finals day with a one-day tournament between 10 Essex teams.

Harlow won all matches and successfully defended the Tachikara Cup, which they won last year.

The Harlow team consisted of Zoe Verow, Muna Mwando, Matt Bakalarczyk, Ilia Kalanov, Gatis Lagzdins, Janis Kazinieks and Linards Silins.

Harlow Volleyball Club head coach Ilia Kalanov said: "It was a great day for the Harlow team where we had to win six matches to win the cup.

"We played very well in all matches and proved again that we are a really good team improving every year.

"This year is the most successful so far as this year the men's team won the league and a cup and the women's team finished third with the same points as the second team in their record."

He added: "We are looking forward to next year where the men's team will be playing at the next division up, and with the women's team we hope will achieve even more."

Praise for unsung heroes at Rams' awards night

TWO of the unsung heroes at Harlow Rugby Club were rewarded when the Ram Gorse hub held its annual presentation night.

Alan Price and Peter Claridge picked up the RFU President's Award and the Essex President's Award respectively, while Allen Maddocks was handed the Essex President's Award.

Harlow Rugby Club was packed to capacity for the senior awards evening.

The club welcomed Bob Whittle, president of the Essex RFU, and he presented a number of the major awards.

Ivor Smith, secretary of the Essex RFU, was also in attendance.

Commenting on why Price, Claridge and Maddocks were the recipients of the two main awards, club press spokesman Dave Sharp said: "The success of the sport depends on a large and hard-working team of volunteers and these were recognised by a number of awards including the RFU President's awards, two Essex President's Awards and an RFU Volunteer Award."

Price, a rugby stalwart, has served Harlow, Essex and London rugby, in many capacities over the past 40 years, as a player, chairman of the rugby club (twice), club secretary, LSRFU referee for eight years and is currently president of Harlow.

"He is an incredibly committed rugby man who continues to give outstanding service to rugby and is sadly one of a dying breed of people who continues to serve his beloved sport on a daily basis. He richly deserves this award, only the second to be awarded to a member of the club," said Sharp.

Claridge was a relative late-

comer to rugby, who was a very committed first XV player for Rams, but after finishing playing he took over coaching a struggling U-12 team and stayed with them until they finished as Colts.

He then started with another U-12 team, and again remained with them until they were colts.

Four years ago he stepped in at short notice and helped with the first XV for a season at the same time.

Sharp said: "It is not just the coaching, it is the way he also gets the parents involved in the team and creates a micro environment around the team which brings many new volunteers into rugby."

"As well as the coaching, every year he ensures the team and the parents go on tour. Peter is a rugby man through and through who coaches in the traditionalist way where the values of the game are fundamentally upheld and is deserving of this recognition."

The Essex President's Award went to Maddocks.

Despite never playing rugby, he has volunteered his services for close on 30 years, mainly in supporting the first XV as kit man, assistant manager and manager, then four years ago he took over as chairman of the mini section (6-11) and did a fantastic job in stabilising the section in the first year and then increasing it in the next two years.

Sharp said: "He still supports the first XV home and away and more latterly he has taken over the running of the 100 Club, bringing the club much needed income. His commitment to the club has been fantastic over a long period and holds the respect of everyone in the club and again is very deserving of this recognition."

The RFU Volunteer Award went to Sarah Perry.

She has been a major contributor to the success of the mini rugby section.

Among her roles the most important has been as fixtures secretary. "Sarah has done this task superbly for a number of years," added Sharp.

Brothers do the business as Town maintain unbeaten run

Harlow Tn 232
Basildon & Pitsea 164
 Town won by 68 runs
 (Shepherd Neame Essex League, division three)

PAT and Ron Yates were the brothers in arms as Harlow Town beat Basildon & Pitsea by 68 runs.

After deciding to bat first, Town were struggling at 57-3.

Shiraz Ali, Joe Holland and Ramya Upadhyay were all out cheaply. Neil Gladwin joined Pat Yates in the middle and the pair started to build a partnership before Yates was stumped on 45.

Tom Price then hit an excellent 56 to help Town achieve an above par score.

Gladwin was eventually out for a resilient 25 after a 60-run partnership with Price.

Skipper Ashley Alderson hit a rapid 31 and Town ended on 232.

Dan Bedford took seven wickets for Basildon.

With ball in hand Danny Calver and Daniel Farmer picked up early wickets.

Lloyd Lambert (41) and Philip Tooke (21) built a steady partnership before Shaun Alderson was introduced into the attack and dismissed Tooke in his first over with a caught and bowled.

Upadhyay eventually bowled Lambert and the hosts were 94-4.

Ronnie Yates produced an excellent spell of spin bowling for the visitors. He ended with five wickets after dismissing the middle order as Basildon were all out for 164, giving Town five extra points for winning the game batting first.

Alderson said: "It was a great win for us. We had two good individual performances in Price and Yates but overall it was a great team effort to win batting first. All six bowlers took a wicket and batsmen at the top and middle order chipped in with runs. Next week will be our biggest test so far as we face relegated Stanford-le-Hope who are unbeaten in the league so far."

Town's twos were thankful to Simon Rowell (5-44) and Graeme Eversden (4-10) as they beat Basildon by 137 runs on Saturday.

Charlie Coleman (96), Dan Baldwin (40) and Matt Hurley (36) enabled Town to declare on 237-7.

Basildon skipper Mark Amos made 47, aided by three dropped catches, but Basildon struggled to 100.

The Town thirds continued their good start to the season with an emphatic win at Wanstead fours, and remain unbeaten and top of the league.

Wickets from Daniel Gleeson (3), Kevin Tilleard (2) and Tyrone Mazarura (2) saw the hosts all out for 101 off 37 overs.

A fine opening partnership of 83 from Johan Cloete (53) and Aaron Simpson (21 not out) steered the team to victory in just 25 overs.

Town's fourth team (204-4 dec) drew with Basildon & Pitsea fours (126-4). Paul Smith (51) and Tom Wilcox (50 not out) top scored for Town.

Title-winning girls seal super season

LANGLEY Colts U-15 Girls ended a remarkable season by winning the B division of the Essex County Girls League title and promotion having won all 18 league games.

The brilliant team scored more than 100 league goals and were 11 points clear of runners-up, Rayne Girls from Braintree.

Langley also beat four higher division sides in the Essex County Girls League Cup, to reach the final only losing 4-1 to Tottenham Hotspur Girls at Fords Sports Ground in Basildon.

The Colts' hopes of a league and cup double were thwarted when, having made a very bright start creating a number of half chances, they conceded three goals in quick succession before half-time.

Despite an excellent second-half performance the girls could not pull back the deficit with only a penalty from top scorer Tayla Handscomb to show for their efforts.

Coach Andy Yeats said:

"The girls' achievements this season have been outstanding. We created this side four years ago and only won one competitive game in our first season.

"With a couple of additions to the squad and a huge amount of commitment and desire to improve, the girls have become one of the strongest sides in Essex. All 15 players in the squad have made significant contributions to the success and they are a joy to coach."

Not only did they come away from an English schools tour in Paris with a number of successes, but the senior team have also become west Essex champions for the first time in their history.

Teams in Years 8 to 11 competed in the French capital.

Year 10 triumphed in their competition and Years 8 and 11 were fourth out of 16 teams in their categories.

This was the first time the Year 10 team have played on their own as they usually make up half of the school's senior team with Year 11.

During the five-day Paris tour, the girls were trained by England coaches, as well as enjoying some time off to explore Disneyland Paris.

Teacher Helen Roper, head of Year 10, said: "We took part in this competition two years ago and were one of just three schools. This year, there were about 40 teams, so to come away with three trophies was just great."

It has been a tremendous season for Burnt Mill.

The senior team won this year's Harlow Netball League, before going on to also win the play-offs, which made them west Essex champions.

Miss Roper said: "Since they were in Year 7, these girls have worked so hard.

"In Year 7 they lost matches, they started to win in Year 8 and came second in the league in Year 9.

"They have pulled together as a team and come to training at 7.30am once a week.

"I am so proud of the girls. Being head of Year 10 makes their success even more special to me. It's one thing to have a team which is good from the start, but this success has come from dedication and hard work."

The team is now looking to the Essex County Championships in October, a title they have not won for five years.

The First Avenue secondary school's Head of PE, Kristina O'Hara, who has represented the INA England (Indoor Netball Association) team in the World Championships in South Africa (see back page for report), helps to train the Burnt Mill teams.

Great start for girls' cricket side boosted by Essex hopefuls

GIRL power is ready to hit teams for six at Harlow Town Cricket Club – after the launch of a new team.

The Harlow Town Tornadoes is thriving at the Ash Tree Field club and features two young Essex County Cricket Club U-11 starlets in Isabelle Richardson and Suzanna Cavadino.

Harlow Town chairman Stuart Alderson said: "We have worked really hard over the past few years to try and encourage girls to take up the sport, with up to now limited success.

"However, over the winter, team manager Lee Richardson has done wonders in bringing together a very capable squad of players.

"It is fantastic to see the girls enjoying the game and there is already a stirring team spirit developing."

The Tornadoes played its first full competitive game recently.

Resplendent in their new kit sponsored by Places for People, the team hosted the Saffron Walden Girls in a "terriers" style match.

The Tornadoes batted first and racked up 248-6 with Isabelle Richardson the pick of the batters.

Walden scored 178 but the Tornadoes proved too strong with both bat and ball.

Matilda Prince, Charutha Radhakrishnan, Brittany Teale and Harper Kubaisi all picked up two wickets each for the Tornadoes.

The Tornadoes match was followed by the Essex CCC Super fours tournament.

Alderson explained: "It was also nice to see many of our squad involved with the county too.

"Lee is still looking for more players, with training taking place every Wednesday evening at Ash Tree Field from 6pm-8pm.

"We are hoping to have one of the Essex CCC ladies players along each week to help coach and encourage the players.

"I would also like to thanks Places for People our new Tornadoes' sponsor for helping us to kit the team out in caps, playing shirts and jackets."

however, as the Hadleigh middle order kept their cool and made it over the line with a great deal of overs to spare.

"It was a bad toss to lose, and on this occasion I believe it cost us the game," reflected Ahmed, pictured above. "Everyone in the league seemed to struggle this week, as the highest score posted by any side was 159.

"We just have to dust ourselves off and move on to next week."

Harlow's second XI (208-8) lost by six wickets to Hadleigh (209-4).

Harlow still took nine points from the fixture as they look to solidify their division one position after last year's promotion.

PE teacher's World Champs silver joy

A PE teacher from Harlow has won a silver medal playing netball for England at the World Championships in South Africa.

Kristina O'Hara, head of PE at Burnt Mill Academy in First Avenue, is a key member of the INA (Indoor Netball Association) England squad.

A member of Hertford Hornets Netball Club, O'Hara helped her team secure their first ever medal in the sixes competition, playing nine games in three days.

She said: "The whole tour has been an amazing experience and we are delighted with our silver medal from the World Championships.

"My next challenge will be trialling for the test series against South Africa, which will be taking place in Bristol during September.

"We played South Africa in the semi-finals and beat them by 12 points after a fantastic last quarter. We went into the last quarter drawing. We played Australia in the final and gave them a good battle. I was in the starting line-up for the final and played three out of the four quarters.

"I am loving the experience playing for my country and being such a big part of us achieving the silver medal by scoring lots of two-pointers for the team. I have had lots of court [time]."

England reached the semi-finals in the sevens competition, which O'Hara also played in, but lost out to South Africa.

"The sevens tournament faced us with another three days of competition, consisting of nine games," O'Hara explained.

"We fought hard over the three days and made the semi-final against South Africa.

"Unfortunately, we were closely defeated in the semi after a close battle, finishing in third place.

"I was playing goal attack throughout the sevens tournament, and on the final competition day I had 100 shooting stats in the quarter-finals and semi-finals.

"It seems my 6.30am shooting sessions at Burnt Mill before work had paid off!"

O'Hara, who lives in Broxbourne, added: "This is the best experience of my life – being introduced on to court for England, singing the National Anthem and playing in a world champs final for my country."

Young duo are a Brit special

TWO Harlow Athletic Club members received plenty of inspiration when they met Great Britain athlete Adam Gemili.

On Saturday at the Bedford international games, Mohamed Tamberdu and club-mate Dylan Ellis ran in opposing county vests.

Mohamed was competing for Hertfordshire in the invitation-only event, and finished second in his U-17 100m heat and smashed his previous personal best (PB), running 11.15s which ranks him third in the county.

Dylan then ran for Essex, in another heat, and equalled his PB of 11.28s to finish third. This gave him a No.2 ranking in Essex.

Both boys met Gemili, set to star for Team GB at the Olympic Games in Brazil in 2016.

The Londoner clocked a new 100m track record of 10.08s on the day. He generously signed his spikes and gave them one each to keep, also happily sharing photo opportunities with the boys.

Mohamed was third in the final, and Dylan was eighth after slipping out of his blocks.

Mohamed is now 33rd for his age group in the UK and Dylan 54th.

Harlow AC coach Steve Lott said: "They have both benefited massively from their lead coach Vincent Lawrence's commitment.

"Whilst on a recent business trip to the US he spent his evenings with an elite training group in New Jersey and has come back full of new ideas.

"The intensity of the new regime has certainly boosted both young men's performance."
